185 Educators Attend Meeting

Audio-Visual Aids Topic Discussed

"Interesting, informative and helpful" was what the 185 educators who attended said about the audio-visual aid conference, held Wednesday at Concordia college in Moorhead and at the Horace Mann school in Fargo.

Registration records showed that 185 different educators had registered; the aggregate attendance at all the sessions was about 225.

Dr. A. M. Christensen, MSTC head of the planning committee, said the conference had been more successful than members of the committee had anticipated, and that more interest was evidenced in the conference than they had expected.

The conference began at 2:00 p. m. with round table discussions and demonstrations of some of the common means of audio and visual aids. This session was held at the Horace Mann school.

O. S. Anderson, principal of the Horace Mann school, introduced the subject. Those who participated in discussions and demonstrations were Miss Gladys Taig, Fargo; Miss Ruth Edholm and Mrs. Helen Berry, Fargo; Harold Lillywhite, MSTC; Dr. C. P. Archer, University of Minnesota; Peter Anderson, Concordia; Charles Jahr, Doran; John Lundh, Breckenridge; T. W. Thordarson, NDAC; Miss Alice Corneliussen and Miss Agnes Carlson, MSTC and Miss Eida Rost, Fargo.

The Schoolmasters Study club dinner in the evening was attended by about 85 men. The banquet was held in the recreation room of Fjeldstad hall on the Concordia campus, and speaker for the evening was Dr. Ella C. Clark, who discussed "Implementing the Defense Program Through More Effective Use of Visual Aids."

In the evening, at the Concordia college auditorium, there was a round table discussion of the practical uses of visual and auditory aids. Dr. Christensen introduced the subject, and speakers were Dr. J. R. Schwendeman, MSTC; Donald Lewis, Red Wing; Phillip Morgan, South St. Paul; Miss Fannie Byhoffer, Wayzata; Miss Enga Lund, Fargo.

The conference was adjourned following this session.

Peterson Attends Editorial Meeting

Kiwanians Hear Dr. J. N. Brown

Dosland Named Head of Speakers' Bureau

"We are fighting a war of philosophies. On one side is the philosophy of war and plunder and totalitarianism and on the other side is the philosophy of freedom," Dr. J. N. Brown, Concordia college president, pointed out to Kiwanis club members at the noon luncheon at the Comstock hotel today.

Recently returned from a meeting in Baltimore of the association of college presidents, Dr. Brown said "this meeting stressed the importance of education in the present war and the post-war period."

"It is from the colleges and universities of the land that the government expects to get its specialists for various jobs, not only to win the war but also for the period after the war," he continued.

Speaking about Germany, Dr. Brown said we are fighting against the Nazi philosophy and not necessarily the German people. He quoted a British representative at the Baltimore meeting, who declared "The Kaiser was an angel in comparison to the present German leadership."

North Dakotan Fined For Game Violation

Arnold Jalbert, Grandin, N. D., paid a fine and costs amounting to $210 when he pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Albert Enger, Halstad, to killing a raccoon out of season. He was arrested by Game Warden Robert E. Streich, assisted by D. D. Centerville, Detroit Lakes, and A. M. Ross, Fargo, game wardens.

It was also brought out at Jalbert's hearing that he was hunting without having obtained a non-resident license and that he illegally chopped down a tree in order to capture the raccoon.

Dahlstrom Rites Conducted Today

Reverend O. G. Berg Officiates At Services

Funeral services were held this afternoon for Pete Dahlstrom, farmer near Comstock for over 40 years, who died at a local hospital Sunday.

Services were held at the Clara Lutheran church at Comstock, with Reverend O. G. Berg, pastor of Bethesda Lutheran church of Moorhead, officiating. Music was furnished by Mrs. Arthur Lydahl and Miss Ruth Lydahl, with Miss Lottie Nelson their accompanist.

Palbearers were six nephews: Algot Anderson, Edwin Anderson, Albin Dahlstrom, Hugo Bernhard, Lester Hicks and James Bernhard. Honorary palbearers were Ole Nelson, Joel Anderson, Peter Carlson, Ole Amundson, Hilbert Mattson, Peter Lydahl and Fred Riene.

Mr. Dahlstrom leaves one daughter, Mrs. Ed Anderson, 124 Fourth street north; one son, Edwin Dahlstrom, Comstock; one sister, Mrs. Arvid Anderson, Fargo; two brothers, Emil, Comstock, and Halvor in Sweden and one grandson, Larry Dahlstrom.

Number Two--

It is planned to have available maps, charts, and other appropriate visual material to make the discussions clear and reference easy. Other meetings will be devoted to such subjects as "How to Win the War of Nerves," directed by members of the psychology department; "Maintaining Health and Vitality in War Time"; "Daylight Saving and Other Factors in Conservation"; "Slogans and American Ideals"; "Interpreting Radio and Press Dispatches of the War"; "Price Fixing"; "What is Involved in the Pacific Conflict?"; "Winning the Peace"; "Weather and Science in the War," etc.

These meetings are planned to supplement and not to conflict with the first-aid programs which are being carried on by the national Red Cross organization with the cooperation of Miss Flora Frick and the physical education department at the college Tuesday evenings.

The wartime policies committee includes Dr. Schwendeman as chairman; Dr. Snarr; Dr. A. M. Christensen, head of the education department; Dr. Glenn C. Dildine, head of the science division; Miss Georgina Lommen, director of the campus school; Professor Byron D. Murray, head of the literature and language division; and Professor Bridges.

Acting with Dr. G. L. Gosslee, resident director, the committee will give general direction to the discussion programs and is working on other problems in connection with the emergency, including the advisability of accelerating the college calendar so as to make available enough teachers for rural schools and for industrial arts and physical education departments, in

A new automobile branch also was created with supreme authority for conversion of the industry to wartime production delegated to Ernest Kanzler, former Ford Motor company executive. Kanzler, who will have offices in Detroit, will make decisions "on the spot." He will have advisers from the ranks of labor and industry and from the army and navy.

There will be other divisions, such as those on information, administration and statistics, but they will not be concerned chiefly with the problems of production—as will the six major divisions.

There can be no debate, no argument about it, Nelson said, for time is here to get the job done. Nelson is going on the assumption that management and labor are anxious to cooperate. If there are instances where one or the other doesn't want to go along, then steps will be taken.
